DEDICATION

The American jail was established more than two hundred years ago to fulfill a need for public safety. All the brick, mortar, bars and restraining devices cannot fulfill the public safety need without people—it is to people this book is dedicated. This fourth edition of the National Jail and Adult Detention Directory is published in the names of the thousands of men and women who work in the nation's jails. Without the sheriffs, deputies, correctional officers, teachers, psychologists, doctors, cooks and bakers and others involved in the day to day operations of over 3,000 jails in the United States, public safety would not be maintained.

The American Correctional Association salutes the staff and governing authorities who make the resources available to run safe, humane and constitutional jails and detention centers.

Foodservice Professionals For More Than 50 Years

PREFACE

More than 8 million people pass through our nation's jails every year — the number increases every year. Jail practices have changed considerably in the past few years; however, lasting changes in our field are not easily measured in single year increments. Crime control programs, which have a history of over 300 years in the United States and several centuries upon the European and Asian continents, have to be viewed in the context of generations. Because jails are asked to fulfill various public wishes, they are, even today, being called upon to house persons who should be handled by mental health and social service systems. Because of their assigned task, jails will always be suspect in any community.

As a society, the resolve of the electorate and policymaker is not only necessary but vital in determining what the role of the jail or detention center should be. Should we not provide humane care? Should we not provide proper supervision that will curb crime within the jail? Should we not follow professional standards? Lastly, should we not fund the programs properly? I believe all citizens and policymakers would answer "yes" to these questions if they were consistently informed of the difficulties we all face in corrections.

The American Correctional Association and its staff are dedicated to providing a variety of services to its members as well as the general public. An Association's responsibility is to know what members need in order to do their jobs in a professional manner. One of the services to which we lend our expertise is publications. The information provided in this directory is pertinent and necessary to those members who are responsible for our nation's jails.

The American Correctional Association has published a directory of state and federal correctional institutions since 1939. The need for a directory devoted exclusively to jails was seen as a necessity in 1978 and the first edition of the National Jail and Adult Detention Directory was published followed by updates in 1981 and 1983. This fourth edition is more complete, has more information and is indeed a significant document.

The Association cannot assume responsibility for errors or omissions; however, every effort has been made to ensure accuracy. Every jail, each board of commissioners or supervisors, court judges, jail planners and merit system planners would benefit from a personal copy of this valuable and useful resource document. The information is current, important, exciting and should be used often.

WE KNOW EXACTLY WHAT OUR SECURITY GLASS CAN DO.

NOW, WE WANT YOU TO KNOW!

That's right! Binswanger Security Glass Products are subjected to intense testing by independent laboratories nation wide. The results of these tests (Binswanger "Security Glass Credentials") are used by architects and owners to determine which product best answers their specific need. To make a long story short, we eliminate the security glass guesswork.

If you have a question about security glass, use the coupon below to get the facts. If your questions need faster answers, give us a call. Either way, Binswanger's "Security Glass Credentials" has the answers to your protection questions.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This directory, first published in 1978, is one of the major sources of detailed information concerning individual jails and adult detention centers in the United States. The directory lists data on over 3,000 facilities; closed jails are also noted.

Appreciation is extended to all the sheriffs, wardens and jail administrators who updated information and provided new data and photos as requested. We also wish to thank the jail inspectors throughout the country who participated in the effort to present accurate data.

The American Correctional Association is appreciative of the support of the advertisers whose goods and services are represented in this directory. They also provide resources to the professional community and want to be helpful in keeping "state of the art" status in the nation's jails.

The Association also gratefully acknowledges the following ACA staff for their efforts in acquiring and organizing the material to produce this publication:

The Case of the Overcrowded Prison:

It was a dark and desperate hour.

"Thirty new commitments are on the way, and we need space fast," the tough administrator demanded. The boys from the governor's office scowled. While the correctional officers stood watch, the restless men clamored.

Then the guy from Gelco Space stepped boldly to the fore. "More space in less time for less money with our mobile and modular units," he promised. "Dormitories, kitchens, standard or custom designs. Even an entire prison. Whatever you need. And you can buy, rent, or lease at any of the more than 80 sales and service locations."

"Simple addition," the astonished group concluded as a ray of sunlight pierced through the walls. One shout rang out: "Reach for the phone. Call Gelco Space, 1-800-523-7918."

We asked our clients to speak for us

In a survey of our clients by an independent agency, we liked what we heard (OK, we wouldn't tell you if we didn't).

They say they like Szabo service ("excellent," "professional," "outstanding," "responsive," "simply cooperative").

They like contract management of health and medical services for corrections ("freed me to deal with other functions," "saved money," "brought stability to our program," "tickled to death with the financial control," "eased a burden off," "cost effective").

And they like Szabo's approach ("refreshingly honest," "dependable," "flexible," "communicates with everyone, not just chiefs," "showed us how to get a better system and finance it," "strong headquarters support").

Can we show you what our clients are talking about? Call Ed Wolf.

How to Use This Directory

Jails and adult detention centers are listed alphabetically by state, and subsequently, by county. Some larger city jails are included. An explanation of the directory format (opposite page) is listed below:

IDENTIFICATION. State represented is shown in heading. Included in this column is the official name of each facility, the address and telephone number.

ACROSS THE LINES. Name of jail administrator, title, telephone number (if different from the main facility number); name of the chief deputy.

NOTE provides further explanation of asterisk (*)

STARTING CORRECTIONAL SALARIES. Refer to key at bottom of left hand page. For example, a "4" in the ADMINISTRATOR column denotes a starting salary for that position in the $18,001-$21,000 range.

TOTAL NUMBER OF STAFF indicates number of full time staff required to operate jail only, including clerical and program staff.

FISCAL INFORMATION. Refers to FY86; all amounts rounded off to thousands.

ANNUAL BUDGET denotes total of all monies used to operate jail regardless of whether local or state funds were involved.

ANNUAL CAPITAL BUDGET indicates total amount of dollars available for FY86 for new construction, remodeling or upkeep.

CONSTRUCTION MONEY APPROPRIATED indicates the amount appropriated for next fiscal year.

PHYSICAL PLANT.

YEAR ORIGINALLY CONSTRUCTED notes actual date facility opened.

YEAR OF LAST RENOVATION generally notes last major renovation.

SECURITY indicates degree of security maintained at facility—maximum, medium, minimum or combinations.

INMATE RATED CAPACITY shows official number of inmates claimed as operating capacity.

AVERAGE DAILY POPULATION. Official numbers used for reporting purposes for FY86.

ADULT AND JUVENILE lists actual numbers of males and females.

COMPOSITION denotes the racial composition by percent of the average daily population for FY86.

Maximum Reliability Dependable Security

Look into locking systems scaled to fit standard doors and frames, and to use conventional mortise key cylinders. Yet rugged enough for installations worldwide in correctional institutions, hospitals, museums, businesses, banks and embassies.

Check such innovative features as automatic-adjusting door-position switches, plug-in connections, and free-spinning knobs. Prove to yourself that R.R. Brink is the company to call when you need dependable security.

Williams Mobile Offices
WILLIAMS

Fast relief for over-crowding.

Williams modular complexes . . . economical solutions to space, time, and money restraints.

Williams modular facilities offer the solutions to overcrowding problems, budget restraints and time constrictions faced by correctional institutions. By using completely self-contained modular facilities you can be in and operational in months . . . not years. And when compared to conventional construction, the cost savings can be significant. You save time, money and relieve your overcrowding problems fast.

Over thirty years of engineering and manufacturing experience are built into every complex. Dormitories, kitchens, dining and recreational areas, and visitor centers with security, life safety and utility systems within the guidelines of the American Correctional Association.

Call or write today for more information on how Williams modular complexes can relieve your overcrowding problems fast, economically.

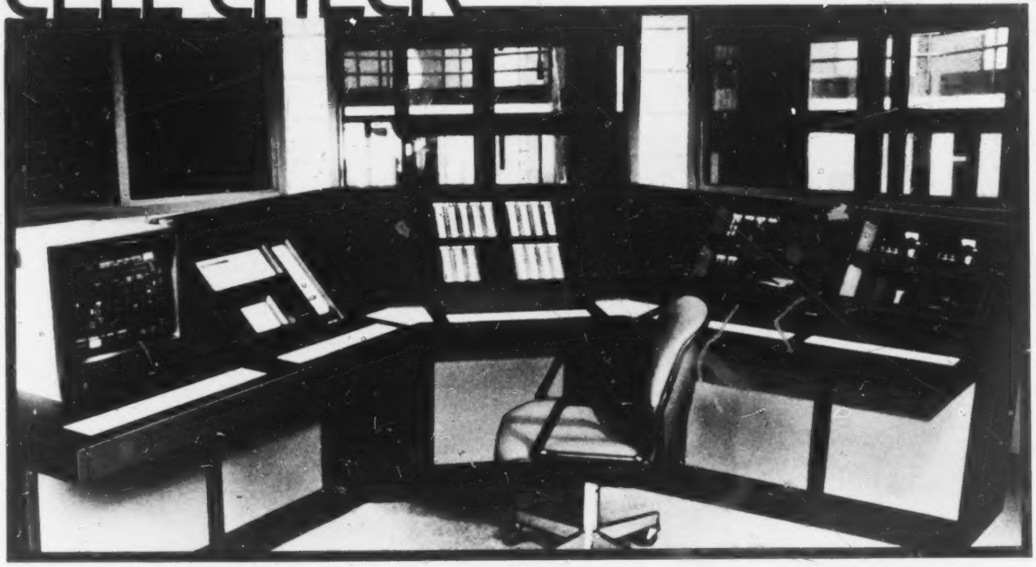
CELL CHECK



a correctional facility electronic security system from Simplex

From years of experience, we understand your concerns about reliability, operational flexibility, service and perhaps more than anything else today – your responsibility to protect your guard force and facility population.

CELL CHECK responds to those concerns with

- Fire/Life Safety
- Security/CCVE
- Emergency Communications
- Cell Control
- Access Management
- Watch Tour Supervision Reporting
- Touch Screen Color Graphics

CELL CHECK offers solutions to correctional facility electronic security problems. For example, CELL CHECK'S interval timed watch tour program provides hardcopy printout each time your officer checks into a tour station. – An important feature for liability protection. The program automatically triggers an alert if the time interval between stations is too long.

So, check into CELL CHECK and GO SIMPLEX SAFE.

ECSI's simple approach to your complex security problems

ECSI designs and manufactures people-oriented monitoring and control systems that are easy to operate and easy to maintain.

ECSI Security Systems have been designed for the modern correctional facility to afford a "normative" yet secure environment for resident and staff.

ECSI Security Systems incorporates microprocessor based window monitoring, door access control, patrol tour, card access, duress alarms, personal body alarm, intercom, public address/monitoring, roof perimeter infrared detection. CCTV surveillance and data storage. The system can be interfaced with smoke/fire detection, elevator control, energy management, and emergency lighting systems to provide "on-hand" operational ability for your line officers and management team.

ECSI provides the design support, fabrication, installation and service, affording you the most complete and effective security system available to meet your specific needs in today's modern correctional facility. To learn just how simple a really secure facility can be, call (201) 657-0110, or write ECSI, 101 Halstead Street, East Orange, NJ 07018.

HOW ARTHUR WORKS FOR YOU

ARTHUR
P.O. BOX 74
SOUTH MAIN STREET
TERRYVILLE, CT 06786

OUT OF STATE: 800-243-8240
IN CONN: 800-692-1234
LOCAL: 203-582-6552

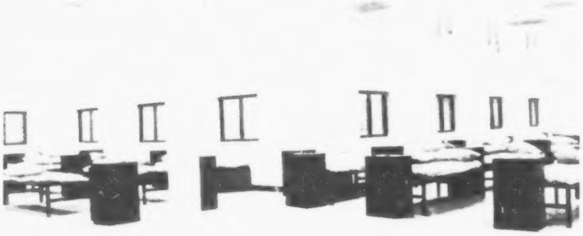
THE ARTHUR SOLUTION TO YOUR PROBLEM

Arthur Industries, Inc., offers complete design services, flexible manufacturing capabilities, installation and service teams that can provide you with single source responsibility. Arthur Buildings are cost and time efficient. Arthur will fulfill your need for space.

Arthur can provide Security Prison Facilities which will immediately eliminate cramped living areas. With many federal, state and county detention centers near full capacity and an expected annual prison growth rate of 29 percent*, most correctional facilities throughout the United States will be experiencing extreme overcrowding conditions. Many states are presently under federal mandate to correct their overcrowded situations.

Southern State Correctional Facility, Leesburg, NJ

Central Control Station, Leesburg, NJ



Dormitory Style Housing, Rikers Island, NY

ARTHUR QUALITY AND FLEXIBILITY

Arthur can provide your correction department with wood frame structures for multipurpose buildings or all steel maximum security, single cell facilities, for high risk inmates.

Arthur can offer:

- Dormitory Housing
- Kitchen/Cafeteria Facilities
- Dayrooms
- Maximum Security Buildings
- Medical/Dental Units
- Staff Offices
- Centralized Guard Control Stations
- Administration Buildings

Arthur Buildings can be used as additional space within the confines of your existing grounds. Another concept is the self supporting, free standing prison facilities.

All Arthur structures meet required building codes and regulations. Low maintenance energy efficient material ensure reduced future upkeep and operating costs.

Success is no accident.

It's been a J.R. Wald tradition for 60 years.

Correctional industries operate in institutional settings, but they are industries nonetheless. Their success demands much more than a building and equipment. It requires understanding the total picture of correctional industries, and that is what John R. Wald Company does best.

For more than 60 years, our industrial know-how has been dedicated to creating productive, smooth-running industrial programs for the nation's correctional institutions.

We believe in correctional industries as a concept from start to finish. That's why we are there from start to finish. Design, equipment, installation, training, replacement parts, trouble-shooting, repairs, technical assistance; and that rare commitment of on-going full support. They're all part of our total approach.

Success is no accident. Neither is the expertise of the John R. Wald Company.

NOTES:

1. In most cases the formula for calculating per diem is: Jail's Operating Budget divided by average daily population. For Maricopa County, the operating budget includes a portion of the salary for all county officials/personnel outside the Sheriff's Office who are involved in the Administration of the Detention Bureau. Other formulas may have been used in other county jails.
2. The capacity for Maricopa County Detention Bureau is set at 2,634 by the Federal Court consent decree in the case of Hart vs. Hill (1981). Actual design capacity is over 3000 inmates. Capacity is defined as the number of beds available excluding intake capacity. All the above listed capacities may not have used this definiiton.
3. Counties not responding: San Francisco County, CA; Dade County, FL; Duval County, FL; Fulton County, GA; Jeffferson County, KY; Essex County, NJ; Hamilton County, OH; El Paso County, TX; Tarrant County, TX.

THE DRUNK DRIVER AND JAIL
A five-volume series is now available from the ACA for an $8.00 postage handling charge. Prepared by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration in cooperation with the ACA, this series provides a comprehensive look at the effects of growing public and legislative support for jailing drunk drivers. Quantities are limited.

MOST EXPENSIVE SANCTION MAY NOT BE BEST FOR DRUNK DRIVERS

Jail is the most expensive sanction for drunk drivers — and it may not be the best.

That's one of the conclusions reached in a new study by the National Highway Traffic Administration and the American Correctional Association. The study is entitled "The Drunk Driver and Jail."

Sixteen states now have legislation requiring jail or alternative sanctions for the first-offense drunk driver, and 41 states have laws requiring jail sentences (from two days to six months) or other sanctions for those found guilty of DWI (drunk driving) a second time, according to the study.

Putting criminals in jail is only one of many correctional options. Moreover, increasing the size of local jails or building new ones is likely to be one of the most expensive and difficult of the options available for managing drunk drivers.

Building jails cost $43,000 per bed, said the study — and that's only the beginning. It costs up to $17,000 per year to maintain an offender in jail.

Add to these costs the problems already faced by many jails — overcrowding, lack of personnel, lack of needed programs and services such as suicide screening — and it is easy to understand why jailing the 1.9 million DWIs arrested each year will impose enormous new demands on correctional programs and services and the limited funds available to them, says the study.

The study goes on to note that "most drunk drivers are classified as low risk, non-violent offenders who have no prior criminal history...Correctional options other than secure incarceration can often be used to restrict their freedom of movement and monitor their activities."

There is so far little data available on the effect of jail on drunk drivers, the study notes. "One sanction that has proved highly effective in reducing alcohol-related traffic accidents is license suspension or revocation."

The study notes that there is general agreement that drunk driving offenders should pay fines and fees to cover as much of the costs of their correctional alcohol treatment programs as possible. "Many feel that DWIs should also make restitution to the community, either directly to victims or through payments to general victim compensation funds. (Interestingly, most drunk drivers are not arrested as a result of a traffic accident and therefore have no victim.)"

"...increasing the size of local jails or building new ones is likely to be one of the most expensive and difficult of the options available for managing drunk drivers."

The study adds that "more than 20 states have established unpaid work on behalf of the community as an alternative to short-term jail sentences for drunk drivers. Properly administered, community service programs offer the benefits of reducing correctional costs and jail overcrowding while providing useful services to communities and a more constructive penalty for non-violent offenders."

Most convicted drunk drivers are employed and many professionals think that they ought to be placed in work release centers or in intensive probation supervision so they can be free during business hours to continue earning incomes and help reduce the tax burden of correctional programs, according to the study.

THE AMERICAN CORRECTIONAL ASSOCIATION

AMERICAN CORRECTIONAL ASSOCIATION

Code of Ethics

PREAMBLE

The American Correctional Association expects of its members unfailing honesty, respect for the dignity and individuality of human beings, and a commitment to professional and compassionate service. To this end we subscribe to the following principles.

RELATIONSHIPS WITH CLIENTS/ COLLEAGUES/OTHER PROFESSIONS/ THE PUBLIC

Members will respect and protect the civil and legal rights of all clients.

Members will serve each case with appropriate concern for the client's welfare and with no purpose of personal gain.

Relationships with colleagues will be of such character to promote mutual respect within the profession and improvement of its quality of service.

Statements critical of colleagues or their agencies will be made only as these are verifiable and constructive in purpose.

Members will respect the importance of all elements of the criminal justice system and cultivate a professional cooperation with each segment.

Subject to the client's rights of privacy, members will respect the public's right to know, and will share information with the public with openness and candor.

Members will respect and protect the right of the public to be safeguarded from criminal activity.

PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT/PRACTICES

No member will use his or her official position to secure special privileges or advantages.

No member while acting in an official capacity, will allow personal interest to impair objectivity in the performance of duty.

No member will use his or her official position to promote any partisan political purposes.

No member will accept any gift or favor of such nature to imply an obligation that is inconsistent with the free and objective exercise of professional responsibilities.

In any public statement members will clearly distinguish between those that are personal views and those that are statements and positions on behalf of an agency.

Members will be diligent in their responsibility to record and make available for review any and all case information which could contribute to sound decisions affecting a client or the public safety.

Each member will report without reservation any corrupt or unethical behavior which could affect either a client or the integrity of the organization.

Members will not discriminate against any client, employee or prospective employee on the basis of race, sex, creed or national origin.

Members will maintain the integrity of private information; they will neither seek personal data beyond that needed to perform their responsibilities, nor reveal case information to anyone not having proper professional use for such.

Any member who is responsible for agency personnel actions will make all appointments, promotions or dismissals only on the basis of merit and not in furtherance of partisan political interests.

Jail Inmates 1984

At midyear 1984, local jails in the United States held an estimated 234,500 persons, 5% more than a year earlier. Overall jail occupancy was 90% of the rated capacity of the Nation's jails. The average daily jail population for the year ending June 30, 1984, was 230,641, up 1% from the preceding year. These findings are from the 1984 Annual Survey of Jails, which obtained data from 1,164 jails in 893 jurisdictions, a representative sample of the Nation's jails. Approximately 1 of every 3 jails across the country was surveyed.[1]

May 1986

In recent years few public policy issues have attracted as much attention at the State and local level as the resources devoted to jails, prisons, or other correctional programs. Accurate information on jail and prison populations is vital to policymakers and the general public in assessing the demands placed on correctional resources.

This Bureau of Justice Statistics bulletin presents findings from the June 30, 1984, Annual Survey of Jails. The survey was developed to provide estimates of the country's jail inmate population in the years between National Jail Censuses. This is the second survey in the series and the first to follow the 1983 National Jail Census.

National estimates are provided for the number of jail inmates, their demographic characteristics and conviction or detention status, the total volume of annual jail admissions and releases, jail capacity, and the occupancy rate. Jails in 363 jurisdictions with large jail populations provided additional information on inmate deaths, jails under court order, and inmates held because of crowding elsewhere.

The Annual Survey of Jails was made possible through the cooperation of local jail administrators across the country whose facilities were selected to be included in the survey.

Other survey findings:

- Males constituted 93% and females 7% of all jail inmates. Whites were 59%, blacks 40%, and other races 1%; Hispanics were 13%.
- An estimated 1,482 juveniles, about 1% of the total jail population, were being held in adult jails—down from 1,736 one year earlier.
- Unconvicted inmates (those on trial or awaiting arraignment or trial) were 51% of the adults in jail; convicted inmates (those awaiting or serving a sentence or returned to jail for violating probation or parole) were 49%.
- During the year ending June 30, 1984, there were 15.6 million jail admissions and releases.
- There were 363 jurisdictions with at least 100 jail inmates. Together, these jurisdictions had 621 jails, which held a total of 173,155 inmates, or about 74% of all jail inmates in the country. In these jurisdictions:
  —overall occupancy rate was 102% of rated capacity;
  —24% of the jails held inmates due to crowding elsewhere;
  —22% of the jails were under court order to reduce population, 13% to improve recreational facilities, and 11% to improve medical facilities or services;
  —24% of the jails reported inmate deaths during the year. There were a total of 278 deaths, about the same number of deaths as in 1983; 136 were from natural causes, 126 were suicides, and 6 were homicides. Suicides were down slightly from 130 in 1983 and homicides were up 1.

One-day counts

On June 30, 1984, the estimated number of inmates held in local jails was 234,500, an increase of 5% over the number held on that date a year earlier (table 1). Between 1978 and 1983 the Nation's jail population had increased 41%, for an average annual rate of about 7%. One of every 744 adult residents of the United States was in jail on June 30, 1984.

Most juveniles in correctional custody (about 82,000 in 1983) are housed in juvenile facilities. Fewer than 1% of the inmates of the Nation's jails in 1984 were juveniles. An estimated 1,482 juveniles were housed in adult jails across the country on June 30, 1984, 15% fewer than a year earlier.[2]

Average daily population

The average daily population for the year ending on June 30, 1984, was 230,641—1% higher than the average daily population during the previous year.[3] The average daily juvenile population for the year ending June 30, 1984, was 1,697—an estimated 4% below the average daily juvenile population for the previous year.

*Juveniles are persons of an age specified by State statute (usually under 18) initially subject to juvenile court authority even if tried as adults in criminal court.

Adult detention status

On June 30, 1984, convicted inmates made up 49% of the adults with a detention status, about the same percentage as in 1983 (table 2). Convicted inmates include those awaiting sentencing or serving a sentence and those returned to jail because they violated the conditions of their probation or parole. Unconvicted inmates—those on trial or awaiting arraignment or trial—accounted for 51% of the adults with a detention status.

Juvenile detention status

An estimated 30% of the juvenile jail inmates were being housed for juvenile authorities. These inmates included runaways and juveniles awaiting transfer to juvenile facilities. About 20% of jailed juveniles had been adjudicated or convicted; about 49% were awaiting adjudication or trial.

Demographic characteristics

Males accounted for 93% of the entire jail inmate population (table 3). The male inmate population grew 5% during the year; the female population, 7%. From 1978 to 1983 the male inmate population had grown 40% and the female population, 65%. One of every 382 adult males and 1 of every 5,422 adult females residing in the United States were in a local jail on June 30, 1984.

White inmates made up 59% of the jail population; blacks, 40%; and other races (native Americans and Aleuts, Asians, and Pacific Islanders), 1%. Approximately 13% of jail inmates were of Hispanic origin. About 16% of the whites and 8% of the blacks were Hispanic. The female proportion of each racial and ethnic group of jail inmates was between 6% and 8%.

Population movement

During the year ending June 30, 1984, there were an estimated 15.6 million jail admissions and releases (table 4). About half of these were admissions. Admissions to local jails declined an estimated 3% between 1983 and 1984. Total admissions and releases were 32,100 for juvenile females, 157,181 for juvenile males, 1.5 million for adult females and 13.9 million for adult males. The only group experiencing an increase in admissions and releases between 1983 and 1984 was adult females (up about 4%).

Occupancy

During the 5 years between the 1978 and 1983 jail censuses, the jail inmate population grew 41%, while the total rated capacity of the country's jails rose only 7%. During this period, the overall occupancy rate went from 65% to 85% (table 5). By mid-1984 the jail population had increased another 5%, but overall rated capacity had remained about the same. As a result, the rated capacity occupied increased another 5 percentage points, putting overall occupancy at 90% on June 30, 1984.

Characteristics of jails in jurisdictions with large jail populations

Nearly three-fourths of the Nation's jail population in 1984 were housed in the jails of 363 jurisdictions, each with an average daily population of at least 100 inmates. Together they accounted for 621 jails, 3 more than in 1983. They held 173,155 inmates on June 30, 1984, slightly more than the 168,250 inmates held a year earlier.

Inmates held because of overcrowding elsewhere

Approximately 24% of the jails in jurisdictions with large jail populations held inmates because of crowding elsewhere in 1984, compared to 21% in 1983 (table 6). About 75% of these jails that were holding inmates because of crowding elsewhere were holding them for State authorities. About a third more jails held inmates for State authorities because of crowding in 1984 than in 1983. The proportion holding inmates for other local authorities or Federal authorities because of crowding did not increase during the year.

The number of inmates held because of crowding elsewhere increased 41% during the year, but still represented only 4% of all inmates in jurisdictions with large jail populations. Most of the increase was in the number of inmates held for State authorities, which rose by 31%.

Jails under court order

Although an estimated 90% of the rated capacity of the Nation's jails was occupied on June 30, 1984, occupancy exceeded rated capacity by about 2% among jails in jurisdictions with large jail populations (table 7). Nearly 22% (134) of the jails in jurisdictions with large jail populations were under court order to reduce the number of inmates they housed. The combined court-ordered capacity for these jails under court order was 49,572. The total rated capacity of these jails was about 99% of the total court-ordered capacity, and they were occupied at 98% of court-ordered capacity.

In jurisdictions with large jail populations, 24% of the jails reported that they were under court order to improve one or more conditions of confinement (table 8). Among these jails 47% were cited for deficient medical facilities and services, 54% for inadequate recreational facilities, and 81% for crowded living units.

Inmate deaths

Approximately 24% of the jails in jurisdictions with large jail populations reported inmate deaths during the year ending June 30, 1984, down from 27% a year earlier (table 9). These jails averaged nearly two inmate deaths per facility. About half the inmate deaths were from natural causes, 45% were suicides, 2% resulted from injuries caused by another person, and 4% were from other causes.

Methodology

The 1984 Annual Survey of Jails was the second such survey conducted for the Bureau of Justice Statistics by the U.S. Bureau of the Census. The first was conducted in 1982. On February 15, 1978, and June 30, 1983, complete enumerations of the Nation's jails were conducted. These full censuses are conducted every 5 years. A sample of jails is surveyed in each of the 4 years between full jail censuses to provide annual estimates of the jail inmate population.

A local jail is a facility that holds inmates beyond arraignment, usually for more than 48 hours, and is administered by local officials. Specifically excluded from the count were temporary lockups that house persons for less than 48 hours, Federal- or State-administered facilities, privately operated facilities, and the combined jail-prison systems of Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, Rhode Island, and Vermont.

The 1984 survey included 1,164 jails in 893 jurisdictions. A jurisdiction is a county, municipality, or township that administers one or more local jails. The jails in 363 jurisdictions were automatically included in the survey because the average daily inmate population in these jurisdictions was 100 or more in the 1983 jail census. The jurisdictions with large jail populations accounted for 621 jails and 173,155 inmates, or 74% of the estimated inmate population on June 30, 1984. The other jurisdictions surveyed constituted a stratified random sample of those jurisdictions whose average daily inmate population was less than 100 in the 1983 jail census.

Data were obtained by mail questionnaires: a long form for jails in jurisdictions with large jail populations and a short form for those in the sample group. Second and third mailings and follow-up phone calls were used to encourage reporting. The response rate for the survey was 99.6% of all jurisdictions sampled.

National estimates for the inmate population on June 30, 1984, were produced by sex, race, legal status, and conviction status; for the average daily population during the year ending June 30, 1984, by sex and legal status; and for admissions and releases during the year ending June 30, 1984, by sex and legal status. National estimates were also produced for jail design capacity and rated capacity. Administrators of jails in jurisdictions with large jail populations, who completed the longer questionnaire, provided counts of inmates held due to crowding elsewhere, inmate deaths, and jails under court order.

Except for racial characteristics, data from the 1983 census of jails were used to estimate individual items of data not available from some respondents in 1984.

	Jails reporting deaths[a]		Inmate deaths

Other[b]	11	10	12	10

Note: Data are for the year ending June 30 and cover all jails in jurisdictions with an average daily inmate population of 100 or more in the 1983 jail census.

[a] Detail adds to more than total because some jails reported more than one type of death.

[b] Accidents and cases where the cause of death had not been determined.

Because jails with average daily populations of less than 100 were included in the survey on a sample basis, national estimates have an associated sampling error (standard error). In general, if the difference between two numbers is more than twice the standard error for that difference, the odds are 95 out of 100 that the two numbers are, in fact, different. In other words, there is a 95% certainty that the difference is real and not the result of surveying a sample rather than the entire population. Differences mentioned in the text meet or exceed this 95% confidence level.

The results of comparisons among jails in jurisdictions with large jail populations are not subject to sampling error because all such jurisdictions were surveyed.

In both the 1983 National Jail Census and the 1984 Annual Survey of Jails two measures of inmate population were used: the average daily population for the year ending June 30 and the inmate count on June 30 of each year. The average daily inmate population balances out any extraordinary events that may render the 1-day count atypical. The 1-day count is useful because some characteristics of the inmate population, such as race, ethnicity, and detention status, can be obtained for a specific date from jails that may not record them on a daily basis.

State statutes and judicial practices allow juveniles to be incarcerated in adult jails and prisons under a variety of circumstances. Juveniles are persons of an age (usually under 18) specified by statute in each State, initially subject to juvenile court authority, even if tried as adults in criminal court. The Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974 recommends that those juveniles held in adult jails who were not tried as adults in criminal court be separated from the adult inmate population by both sight and sound. The proportion of the juveniles in adult jails who were housed in accordance with these guidelines is not available.

All calculations in this report involving general population figures used Bureau of the Census estimates of the population for July 1, 1984, reported in "Estimates of the population of the United States, by age, sex and race: 1980 to 1984," Series P-25, No. 965, March 1985.

STRONG DOOR
STRONG LOCK
STRONG HINGES

BUT...

No stronger than the screws that hold the hinges!

We know it—you know it—and they know it—a few well aimed blows, and the screws can be sheared off.

The Best Solution:

The new Folger Adam 4½ FM ICS SECURITY HINGE. This newly developed, investment-cast security hinge stays put and the screws cannot be sheared. On the back of each leaf is an integrally cast stud which projects into the door and into the jamb, and anchors the hinges in place. Even 100 blows (200 Ft. Lbs. each) cannot move them. That's security!

This popular, hospital tip hinge design is made of investment cast stainless steel, with a non-removable concealed hinge pin. The leaves are 3/16" thick and the studs are ½-inch diameter x ½" deep. The configuration of the screw holes makes it a non-handed hinge. Write or call today, for further information.
